THE REASON WHY.

Why is it that HATSON & WEST are selling
GOODS SO CHEAP?
BECAUSE they buy for CASH and sell for CASH.
BECAUSE they take all discounts.
BECAUSE they have the lowest rent.
BECAUSE they have no clerks to pay.
BECAUSE they do their own work.
THAT IS THE REASON.

BOLD ROBBERS.

Robbers invaded the home of R. H. Tomlinson and Judge A. D. Ford last Monday night relieving Robert Tomlinson, Jr. of several dollars in change and a valuable cameo ring. At the Ford residence they succeeded in separating Lige Ford from two pair of pants and about four dollars in money. The robbers left no clue.

K OF P'S ELECT OFFICERS.

Last Thursday evening the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing term in Garrard Lodge No. 29, Chancellor Commander, M. H. Turner; Vice Chancellor, J. L. Francis; Prelate, R. H. Tomlinson; K. of R's and M. F., W. D. Fryer; M. of E., D. W. Marzee; M. of A. Chas. Baierlein; Trustees, G. M. Patterson, R. H. Tomlinson.

SEBASTIAN GETS BAIL.

At the examining trial of Aslie Sebastian last Thursday, charged with killing Zack Simpson, Judge C. A. Arnold, before whom the trial was held, allowed Sebastian bail in the sum of $5,000, which was given immediately and Sebastian was released, having been under guard since the killing two weeks before.

Most of the day was consumed in the testimony of the prosecution, the defense not introducing a witness. The matter will be brought before the grand-jury in August, when an indictment will probably be returned and a trial held at that term of Circuit court.

The prosecution was represented by Messrs J. I. Hamilton, G. C. Walker and Emmet Puryear, while the defense was looked after by Judge L. L. Walker and J. E. Robinson.

BIG TRAFFIC IN SHEEP.

For the past two months Mr. R. E. Henry, of this city has been dealing in sheep on a pretty extensive scale. Having during that time brought from the states of Arkansas and Louisiana about 1400 head. Mr. Henry has made several trips to the two states and always comes back with just a little better bunch. He tells us that they are selling like the proverbial hot cakes at prices ranging from $8.25 to $8.50 a head. At the present prices of young lambs and wool, nothing will realize the farmer more for the money invested than a few of these sheep. The greatest drawback to sheep-breeding in this county is the worthless dogs that are allowed to roam the county and are never tax paid, nor are they ever killed or molested for the nonpayment of such taxes.

OPPORTUNITY

For Valuable City Lots in Danville To Be Offered At Auction On Monday and Tuesday July 10th and 11th.

The beautiful addition, just opened adjoining the property of Messrs John Nichols and Hubert McGoodwin, on Maple avenue, has been surveyed into lots, the streets have been completed and the entire sixty lots will be offered at auction on Monday and Tuesday, the 10th and 11th, says the Danville Messenger. The sale is being made by the United Realty Co., of which J. S. Haselden is advertising manager and O. T. Wallace general manager.

Everyone who has seen this property pronounces it the most desirable in the city, as it lies well, has many large trees thereon, has perfect drainage and is in a most desirable section of the city. The connecting street (extension of Lexington street) with Maple avenue really makes it a part of that beautiful thoroughfare, on which it is now impossible to buy a house.

MEXICAN CRISIS ENDED

Conciliatory Note From Carranza.

The crisis between the United States and Mexico virtually came to an end yesterday when a friendly and conciliatory note from the de facto Government was handed to Secretary Lansing and promptly communicated to President Wilson.

Formal statement of the attitude of the Washington Government must await the President's action, but there is no doubt in the minds of officials that the way has been opened for an amicable adjustment of the dispute as to the border situation, which brought the two Governments to the verge of war.

Secretary Lansing himself would make no comment. He gave the impression, however, that Gen. Carranza's suggestion that there is no pending question between the Governments that cannot be readily answered by friendly negotiation meets with quick sympathy here.

Mr. Lansing is known to share President Wilson's desire that hostilities be avoided if there is any possible way to safeguard American border interests without a clash with the Carranza Government. The new Mexican communication so plainly indicates a similar desire that a further interchange of views is expected to begin immediately looking to joint efforts to curb border bandits and other irresponsible agencies that have worked to embroil the two Governments.

High officials were much impressed by the complete change in tone shown in Gen. Carranza's new note. It was described by one as more than conciliatory. There seems to be no disposition to doubt that the United States on its side would be willing to arrange for the early withdrawal of the expeditionary force from Mexico.

INDEPENDENCE

PAINT LICK.

Day Brings Large Crowd And Amusements
Found For Young and Old. Dinners
On Grounds.

When the business men and honorees of Paint Lick advertised that their Fourth of July celebration would be bigger and better this year than ever before they told the truth. Had a day suitable for such an occasion been made to order, it could not have been improved upon. Long before the parade which was advertised to take place at 8:30 o'clock, the crowd began to pour into this delightful little hamlet and soon the streets and approaches of the city were lined with luggies, automobiles, wagons, saddle horses and other means of transportation, that they might not miss a single one of the many attractions that had been arranged for their day's entertainment. The Danville military band was on the scene early and gave some splendid music, intermingled with many patriotic airs, that often brought applause and cheers from the pleased public.

The hospitality of these delightful people was never more clearly demonstrated than it was last Tuesday. Baskets overloaded with everything that was good to eat were brought by the good ladies and invitations were extended with a sincerity that could only be surpassed by the hearty welcome that was accorded you at the dinners which were spread under the shade of the beautiful Sycamores.

It was estimated that fully three thousand people were on the grounds and while it was not gotten up as a money maker it was thought that the promoters would come out a little ahead. Considering the fact that so many people were present, the department of the crowd was admirable, the representative of the Record failing to see a single drunken man. The games which had been arranged by the program committee was carried out to the letter and added very much to the entertainment of the old as well as the young.

The first on the program was the tennis, doubles, with Messrs Robert and Will Burnam Jr. of Richmond on one side and Willie Fox Logan, of this city and Chester Metcalf, of Paint Lick on the other. The game was well matched and interesting throughout, resulting in the defeat of the Richmond boys. In the single, Mr. Logan defeated Mr. Will Burnam Jr. in a close and well played game.

The pie-eating contest was a merry maker, with about 10 contestants resulted in the prize of $1.00 being awarded to Maurice Pointer.

Ernest Adams was a cracker eater from a way back, was through with his ten crackers and whistling a merry tune before the others got fairly started. He got $1.00 for his fun. The victor in the potato race went to James Mason and was rather easy money.

A Lancaster boy carried away most of the athletic prizes. Ector Lawson being an easy winner in the standing broad jump, the one hundred yard dash, the running broad jump and together with Simp Rogers, he won the prize given by the CENTRAL RECORD in the three legged race.

The one hundred yard dash for boys under twelve, was a dead heat and both boys, Claude Gasteau and Gibson White, were given $1.00 each. The peanut race went to Carter Blakeman, who was a strong favorite from the start. About six other boys "also ran". The Athletic show conducted under the big tent was a money maker and with J. C. Asher as a "speller" they fairly fell over each other getting on the inside, where several "Battle Royal's" were pulled off during the day, very much to the delight of good audiences.

The ball game between White Station and Paint Lick drew a bumper crowd to the new ball grounds, which have been recently opened and is one of the best diamonds one has seen lately, the lay of the ground on the side making a natural amphitheatre, that one can see every movement of the ball during the entire game.

The game was a spirited one, but unfortunately for the Paint Lick team, they lost by a score of 12 to 5 in favor of White Station. Some good entertainments were pulled off during the evening and many stayed over for the night program.

CENTRAL RECORD

U. S. TROOPERS TRAIL RAIDERS

New Force Enters Mexico
After Bandits.

FIGHTING NOW EXPECTED

Outcome of Latest Punitive Expedition Is Watched With Unusual Interest—National Guardsmen Are Beginning to Pour Into Border Points.

El Paso, Texas, July 3.—Another "hot trail" was followed into Mexico by American forces when Captain LeRoy Eltinge, commanding troop K, Eighth cavalry, crossed south of Fort Hancock, fifty miles east of El Paso, after the Mexican raiders who committed depredations on the American side of the line.

Captain Eltinge was stationed at Fabens, midway between El Paso and Fort Hancock and immediately plunged across the river with his command, followed, it is said, by other troops of the same regiment, sent from Fort Bliss.

The raiders, in addition to driving off ranch horses and generally trouncing the civilian population of the region, attacked the abandoned Fort Hancock and the detachment of United States troops at that point. The troops being small in number were unable to follow at once and by the time they could reach the Rio Grande the bandits had escaped. The lieutenant commanding did not consider his force sufficiently large to risk battle with the bandits and a possible command of Carranzas reported in the immediate vicinity, hence he halted his forces at the international boundary.

Captain Eltinge and his force were ordered to the scene with instructions from General George Heit, commanding the American patrol district, to "go in," if he thought he could punish the bandits and recover the horses stolen in Texas. The captain crossed with his command immediately on reaching the scene of the raid. Fighting with the Mexicans is expected at brigade headquarters, as the bandits, former Villistas, are said to number more than fifty "bad men." It is not considered unlikely that the Carranza troops, known to be in the vicinity will also attack.

The outcome of this latest punitive expedition into Mexico was watched with unusual interest, because the international situation remains so delicate that anything almost might disturb the balance of power and precipitate a general engagement between the Pershing forces in Mexico and the Carranza forces camping close upon his flanks and to the south of him. The regulars are tired of inactivity and the arriving militiamen are impatient for active service more exciting than keeping watch on a boundary line for raiders and ammunition smugglers.

Every railroad poured its militiamen into El Paso and other border towns during the day. New Jersey, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania forces arrived here during the day for temporary bivouac at or near El Paso, while militiamen from the west and midwest continued to pass through here for points along the border west of El Paso.

The Southern Pacific railroad east of here was busy detaining volunteer militiamen from Eagle Pass west of El Paso, and the news came that others were being sent out of San Antonio over other railroads to garrison the country between Eagle Pass and Brownsville. It was estimated that 10,000 militiamen had detained here.

Sweetwater, Tex., reported a solid trainload of ammunition for the American border forces passing there. The train was heavily guarded, the advisers said, and nobody was allowed to approach within one hundred feet of it while it stood in the yards at that point, except railroad men with passes signed by the superintendent.

PLAN BIG NAVAL OPERATIONS

Germans Getting Ready For Operation on the Baltic.

London, July 3.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily News says that, according to Swedish newspapers within the last few days the Germans have been preparing for some great naval scheme in the Baltic. There has been energetic activity to get all the warships severely damaged in the Jutland battle ready for action.

A second squadron of the high seas fleet will operate in the Baltic, evidently for an attack on flots in connection with the great offensive of Field Marshal von Hindenburg to lighten the Russian pressure on the Austrian front.

It is stated that the main base of the German naval forces in the Baltic will be changed from Kiel to Libau.

WATCHING FOR SUBMARINE

Baltimore Tug Desires to Tow German Boat Into Port.

Baltimore, July 3.—Never relaxing her long vigil, the Baltimore tug Thomas F. Timmons of the Eastern Forwarding company, is still patting to and fro off Cape Henry, waiting the German merchant submarine, now several days overdue with a cargo of dyestuffs and medicines, according to a dispatch received here.

The tug has been at its post nearly ten days now. "I'm looking for a tow," says Captain Zack Collins, the tug's master, but vessel after vessel has signaled for a tugboat, and the Timmons pays no attention. Baltimoreans interested in the marine venture maintain their air of assurance and refuse to be worried by the non-arrival of the submarine.

AMERICAN REFUGEES ARRIVE

Abandon Property and Interests in Mexico and Flee Country.

Philadelphia, July 3.—Abandoning their property and interests in Mexico sixty-three American refugees arrived at Point Breeze on the Penn Mexican Fuel company tanker "Ardmore." In the party were thirty members of the Penn Mutual Oil camp at Tampam.

The refugees confirmed telegraphic reports that Carranza soldiers are confiscating the property of Americans who have fled to the states, following the posting of bulletins in the Mexican states of Puebla and Vera Cruz that the United States and Mexico are in a state of war.

Accompanying the oil men were a number of ranchers who were rescued by the oil company from their inland positions. All the refugees told of the exodus of thousands of Americans from Mexico.

ADMIRAL GEORGE DEWEY

Points Out Lessons in Jutland Naval Battle.

New York (Special): In an article in the Scientific American of July, printed by courtesy of E. A. Power, Admiral George Dewey points out the lessons learned from the recent naval engagement off the Jutland coast. In the opinion of the admiral, the value of both the dreadnought and the destroyer is proved, but the possibility that the fast, lightly armored cruiser will ever supplant the dreadnought is shown to be unlikely.

WILL ISSUE REVENUE BONDS

U. S. Will Sell War Bonds to Finance Mexican Military Cost.

Washington (Special): Formal announcement was made by representative Kitchin, Democratic leader of the house, that in raising monies to finance the troop operation on the border, the administration will authorize sales of war bonds or government bonds, instead of resorting to additional taxation as originally agreed upon. A decision to this effect was reached at a conference between Mr. Kitchin and Secretary McAdoo.

The revenue bill will be offered in the house immediately and it is planned to pass it the latter part of the week. This measure is expected to yield $250,000,000 a year. It has been estimated that the extraordinary needs of the government incident to the enlargement of the national defense program would necessitate raising an additional $100,000,000 at some time in the future.

This money, if needed, will be obtained by sales of bonds in such amounts as may be required from time to time.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS EPIDEMIC RAVAGES N. Y.

Spread of Disease Unchecked Despite Efforts.

New York, July 3.—New York is in danger of being scourged with the worst epidemic of infantile paralysis in its history, is the ominous sentence opening a warning issued to parents and young children by Health Commissioner Dr. H. H. Emmonson.

The last twenty-four hours saw a further spread of the dreaded disease, particularly in Brooklyn, which led to number of deaths as well as in cases.

Twelve deaths are reported in the health department's daily report. They are in addition to the fifty-two new cases previously announced. One death occurred in Manhattan and one in Staten Island.

Despite the feverish efforts made by the city department and hundreds of private physicians and nurses who are trying to isolate the patients, the epidemic seemed still unchecked. It developed that the disease is ravaging districts not yet officially located.

One nurse found twenty-five cases in a house in house investigation in Brooklyn.

Real estate is the root of riches—the safest investment one can make—it won't burn up, can't blow away, thieves can't break in at night and steal it, and it is Bound to Increase in value. The population of Kentucky is increasing rapidly every year, but there is not any more real estate being made. How much better it is to look ahead and prepare than to look back and regret!

But what we want to call your particular attention to is:

That Danville is the best town socially, morally and from a business standpoint, of its size in the United States. (That is taking in a lot of territory, but we believe this to be true.)

That Danville, with the contemplated improvements, will be a city of 30,000 inhabitants within the next ten years:

That Danville, the pride of the Blue Grass region, the educational center of Kentucky, is the best place on earth in which to invest your money in old Mother Earth.

That the property we will sell is located in the heart of the city, surrounded by magnificent homes and high class development, and is bound to increase in value:

That this property is being developed in a high-class manner, streets are being built, and everything necessary will be done to safeguard its proper development.

That the owners both have their homes adjoining the subdivision and their interest does not cease when it changes hands:

That those who stand quiet and see the other fellow own all of these lots, five years from now will be crying that old, old song, "If I had only bought a lot in Danville see what I'd be worth to-day."

WATCH DANVILLE GROW.

But will you stand and watch the other fellow reap all the benefit? Get in on the ground floor and reap some of the harvest that is sure to come to the wise investor.

ALMOST A NERVOUS WRECK WAS MR. BLACKBURN, OF RICHMOND HE NOW HAS SPLENDID HEALTH

"I can safely say that before taking Tanlac I was almost a nervous wreck," said Mr. John Blackburn 165 Center street, Richmond, Ky.
"My nervousness was undoubtedly caused by stomach trouble. Since taking Tanlac I never felt better in my life."

Tanlac is a tonic which aids digestion promotes healthy, refreshing sleep and strengthens the nerves.

There is hardly a portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac, which begins its work by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby enriching the blood and invigorating the whole system.

Next it enables a weak, worn out stomach to thoroughly digest its food, permitting the assimilation of the nourishing products to be converted into blood, bone and muscle.

It overcomes, it is said, that great exciting cause of disease, weakness. It renders the body vigorous and elastic. It keeps the mind clear and energetic and throws off the symptoms of nervousness and indigestion. It builds up the constitution run down by disease and mental and physical overwork, quickens convalescence and is an unfailing source of comfort to all sufferers from such trouble.

Tanlac is being introduced in Lancaster at E. E. McRoberts.

TRAGEDY AND SADNESS FUN AND COMEDY

Touching Little Incidents That Marked Departure of Various Companies to the Mexican Border.

Some Mothers Sorry to Have Sons Leave While Others Are Proud That They Can Fight For Their Country.

WHEN the militiamen began en- training for the Mexican border, der in the several states there was much sadness of fare- well as the mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts bade goodbye to the departing sons of Uncle Sam. Tragedy was mingled with comedy. Pathos reigned on one hand, while on the other frivol- ity was the rule.

Little did the men seem to realize the difficulties they will face before they return home; little did they realize the hardships that are the lot of any sol- dier. But all were anxious to go, to give winter wear necessary for their country. The following little stories gathered at the various points from whence the men departed are filled with appeals that reach direct to the heart:

Put His Mother First.

If you had to choose between your mother and your sweetheart—which? This is the proposition that was put up to Edward W. Peterson, a private in the Illinois national guard. Colonel Garrity had given orders that each member of the regiment was entitled to resolve a visit from one woman friend, but he deprecated the appear- ance of a lady of half a dozen girls for every guardsman. So when Peterson appeared with three women he found the guard lines strictly drawn and stern sentinels opposing his entrance. Peterson appealed to Captain John L. Lavin of his company.

"Who are the ladies?" said the cap- tain.

"My mother, my sister and my fian- cee," said Peterson.

"You can take in only one," said Lavin. "It's up to you to choose."

Peterson looked around at the faces of the three women, who were closer to him than any others in the world. "Mother," he said simply.

"Some One Cared."

One chap in khaki stood dejectedly in a corner of the First regiment ar- mory, Philadelphia, watching sweet- hearts, wives and mothers bidding farewell to the boys of Company G. He was in Company G, but no one had come to bid him good-bye. A little old woman had been watching him out of the corner of her eye. With her were two girls.

"Hain't no one come?" she asked as she edged up to him. He shook his head mournfully. Then the old woman kissed him. And not only that, but the two girls kissed him, and the little old woman's son, who was the brother of the two girls, who witnessed the inci- dent, smiled knowingly. As Company G swung out the despondent one car- ried himself more erectly than any one in the company.

His Mother Gave In.

A young New York man went into the recruiting station of the Sixty-ninth infantry armory one Sunday with his mother. She gave her consent to his enlisting, and when he was led away for his physical examination she turned to one of the men standing at the desk and said:

"He's been begging me since last Monday to let him go—him and his father too. Between the two of them little is the peace I've had. I stayed there for a while. The boy smells powder, his father says, 'Sure, I tell him, there's none on me, and he don't run with that kind of girls.' He wants to be off with the boys," he says. "Sure, I tell him, he'll learn that quick enough right here at home from you."

"But they kept after me, and this morning after we came home from church I gave in. I had to. There's no living with them these days. They're all for putting a uniform on their chests and a gun on their shoulders. But I'm hoping now you don't give my boy a uniform. He was go- ing to college this fall. He says he'll be back in time to go just the same. Do you think so?"

Soon the young recruit rushed into the room and threw his arms about his mother's neck. "They took me!" he cried. "They took me!"

Tears were in her eyes, but she turned to the man again. "Ain't he a fine, strapping lad?" she asked. "Do you get them any better than that? It's got to be, I suppose. Well, if you're going, boy, I'm sorry it's only Mexicans you'll have to shoot to save them from themselves. And to think you've got to shoot mother man, too, for his own good!"

Old Veterans Rejuvenated.

Noticeable in the crowds about a New York armory, and treated with extreme respect by the men of the reg- iment, have been a number of civil war veterans. They pass slowly about on their canes, giving each man a hand- grip or a word of cheer or rather a group of "boys" together to talk things over. At one such gathering there was present a villain more than six feet tall and built proportionately.

"Looks like a pretty slim and under- sized crowd of boys to me," he volun- teered.

The veteran's eyes snapped a mo- ment as he eyed the stranger. "Slim—"

Held Fast to Friendship.

It is not right to estrange in a mo- ment a friend whom it takes a life- time to secure.

Patent Leather.

Patent leather shoes can be kept like new if they are rubbed over occa- sionally with milk and polished with a soft dry cloth.

little, did you say? They're the finest lot of soldiers I ever saw, bar none. And I've seen plenty of them before you mustered your bottle. Little? Well, maybe they aren't as big as you, but I guess they'll do just the same. You just watch the next Memorial day pa-rade and see which are the ones left—the big of little ones.

"There were a lot of big men in our company, and after we'd gone south and were getting real marching and fighting it got to be a joke with us about waiting for those big fellows to straggle into camp at night two or three hours late. Of course they were all right in a little while, and I'm not saying anything against the big men. But don't you say anything against these wry young cusses here. They'll stand the gaff, don't you worry about that."

"Say, why don't you enlist? Are you over size? In three days they'd have you dropping off that flesh by chunks and crawling into your dog kennel at night with your tongue hang- ing out."

But the stranger had stunk away as the old man's speech grew warmer. "Well, says," the veteran said, "I guess he's gone to enlist, I hope. But for you, I'm proud of you, and if you go to Mexico it's God bless you—every one of you."

This Is Real Bravery.

"Will all these men be able to go? Some of these will have families de- pendent on them, won't they?" one of the New York men was asked.

"They'll go. Take my case. I've got a father, eighty-six years old, and a wife and two children looking to me. I gave up a good job as foreman to do this, and they told me not to come back to the job afterward. But I ain't a coward. And the old man and my woman both said to me: 'You go ahead. We'll take care of ourselves and the kids somehow.' I guess that's the real bravery, ain't it?"

Denver Giant Ready.

Denver, patriotic to the core, and ever ready to step into the breach when the rest of the country needs salvation, has sealed the door of the Carmichael in Mexico, for it was written on the en- listment books of Battery B, Denver's artillery troop in the national guard, that Carl Reuben Sandell stands ready to go.

And who is Carl Reuben Sandell? He is the well known giant—be- lieve the towering figure.

And it is no ordinary record this man's tower, who is seven feet five inches in his shoes and who wears 19 1/2 collars, takes with him into the militia. He was color bearer for the First Colorado in the fuss in the Phil- ippines in 1898, he has been a hunter of big game and a plainsman of many thrilling experiences. He is better known to children to Colorado than any other western hero, and his picture has been posted up by more school children than have thus honored any other idol.

Old Men Plead to Go.

There were old men, gray haired and decrepit, who begged Colonel Donnelly of St. Louis to take them along with him.

"We know more about war than these boys," said one of them in a pa- thetic appeal. "We can shoot. We have been at Wilson's Creek under Lyon, and there are several of us who were with Grant before Vicks- burg. Let us go with you."

Tears came to the eyes of the colo- nel and of Mrs. Donnelly, standing by his side, when he told them he was powerless to give them the opportunity they craved.

A young girl after a hard fight ob- tained admittance to Colonel Donnelly and implored that a young looking re- cruit be exempted from duty.

"He is only seventeen now," she pleaded, "and he is the whole support of the family."

"How did you get in?" the colonel asked him.

"I just passed the physical examina- tion and said I was eighteen."

"I am sorry, little one," said the colonel. "The case will have to go up to the war department, and your father will be under a charge of false enlistment." And then there were tears.

The mother of Captain Edmund J. McMahon of Company H bravely blinked away tears as she saw her three sons going to the front. They are the captain, Lieutenant James J. McMahon and Sergeant William J. McMahon. Their home is in St. Louis.

Wrist Watches Popular.

Now, please don't smile, for the wrist watch already has proved its serviceability with the army officer, but in view of the alleged prejudice of the wife a telegram addressed to all officers of the national guard in St. Paul and signed by an enterprising jeweler savors more or less of alleged humor. Here it is:

"Every minute counts with the alert American army officer. Your high po- sition demands you be punctual, and this you cannot accomplish without an accurate timepiece. Officers under col- ors in foreign lands speak volumes of praise for the wrist watch. Prices, $3 to $25."

That the wrist watch is seriously considered as an important part of the soldier's personal effects is indicated by the fact that many guardsmen, par- ticularly the officers, already are equip- ped with the bracelet timepiece.

"Go to It," Says Dying Father.

Lieutenant A. C. McDonald of St. Louis has a father dying, but is an- swering the call to arms.

"Go to it, my boy," whispered his fa- ther when the boy thought of asking for a discharge. "The country is above everything, and I am only an old man. I wish I could get up and fight for the flag."

As a matter of patriotism a St. Louis man who had passed the age limit—an old soldier who had served through two campaigns—enlisted as hospital cook.

"If I can't do anything else I surely can cook for the boys," he said.

It Didn't Work.

Captain Thomas P. Oetigan, adjutant of the Illinois Seventh, was giving in- structions to a subordinate when a young woman, adding, bearing a child in her arms, approached him.

"I am Mrs. Arthur Karafite," she called, "and I came for my husband, who left me to starve and support this infant. He is a private in your reg- iment."

When Private Karafite admitted his wife had spoken the truth and that he was willing to return Captain Oetigan was ready to furnish transportation money to the guardsman and let him return home. The captain looked up the enlistment papers to make out a report when he discovered the man had sworn he was single.

Needless to say the private, who, the captain says, is a good soldier, remain- ed in camp, and the "wife" after ad- mitting she was his sister, went back to Chicago.

Sick Wife Wants Him.

Albert E. Pierce of Chicago left a sick wife and a four-year-old boy.

"My wife doesn't want me to go," he said, "but what's a man to do? I don't want to go for my personal amuse- ment. This is something that comes before even a fellow's own, according to my belief."

"The Italian government issued a call for me," said Frank Hittie, a distant land-master, who was for seven years in the navy. "But I refused. They can't have me. My home is here, my wife is here, my three little sons are here. So I fight for Uncle Sam any time he calls me."

How They Leave.

One thing in connection with the Illi- nois First cavalry's manner of going to war is worthy of observation: Either the line—my correspondents who re- port the departure of European troops are successful fakers or the technique of the First is woefully in need of re- pairs. The European war is more pic- turesque, more heroic. A kiss for the wife, a tear for the baby, a prayer for the fatherland and a curse for the foe is the way he goes to his honors.

But in other fashion do the swash- bucklers of the roaring First march forth. If the Mexicans could have heard what their oncoming enemies had to say of them it would take a hardy self respect on their part to sur- vive it. The men of the First scarcely mentioned them. They couldn't be ap- proached by them at all. There was too much else to occupy their attention.

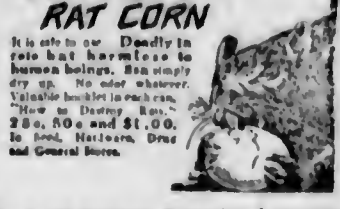

Great Soldier's Idiosyncrasy.

Marshal Ney, who was as handsome as he was brave, is said never to have appeared on the field of battle until he was dressed with scrupulous elegance and his beard carefully curled and perfumed. When he was led out to execution he was as cool as though going to a dance.

Tarnished Silver. Tarnished silver is easily cleaned with powdered whiting mixed to a paste with ammonia and water. Rub the paste on with one leather and have another leather to polish it off again.

Long Time Arriving. "Some stars are so far away that the light from them hasn't reached us yet. But it will arrive eventually."

"Reminds me of my hired man coming from the post office," commented Farmer Heck.

SONS IN MANY ARMIES.

Six Nationalities Share in Distribution of a Large Estate.

Six nationalities—American, French, German, Russian, Italian and English—will figure in the distribution of the estate of Mrs. Eleanor K. O'Connor who died in Paris March 11 last.

Mrs. O'Connor was eighty-five years old at the time of her death. She was born in Danbury, Conn.; went to California with her father, who was a forty-niner, and after the death of her husband in 1875 went to Paris with her five daughters, who married gentlemen of five different European countries. The son, John F. K. O'Connor, lives in New York.

The five daughters mentioned in Mrs. O'Connor's will, which has been filed for probate, are Mrs. Elsie Vollette, wife of Colonel Vollette, now in the French army with his son; Mrs. Margaret Cambisoglio, whose husband was a member of the Italian foreign office at Karlsruhe, Germany, and is now connected with the Italian army; Mrs. Sara K. Griffin, wife of a physician living at Wimbledon, England; Mrs. Frankie Krumpel, wife of Rudolph Krumpel of Moscow, a colonel in the Russian army, and Agnes Klipfel, who died recently in Muenster, Germany. Her husband is in the German army, and their son was recently killed in an airplane flight.

Base in a Clubroom. To show how easily bees may be handled, expert turned loose 10,000 of them in woman's clubroom in Cleveland.

To Wind Yarn Unsaid. We all know that it is difficult to wind wool or yarn of any kind if there is no one to hold the skein. To overcome this difficulty put two hairpins on the tails a sufficient distance apart to allow the wool to be tightly stretched. This will answer just as well as some one holding the skein.

QUAINT PARASOLS.

The summer season will be conspicuous for the novelty and charm of its parasols. Among the novelties we may expect will be a multitude of all kinds of queer and quaint and unusual shapes, many of them having stripes that radiate from the sticks. Stripes will be a great feature, whether the parasol be dome shaped or pagoda shaped. Many of them will be copied from the pushovers of our grandmothers, which were covered with multitudes of miniature motifs.

GREAT LOSSES FROM SMUT.

Affect Grain and Forage Crops and Cause Great Annual Loss.

Smuts affecting grain and forage crops cause an annual loss to Kansas farmers of millions of dollars, according to a Kansas agricultural experiment station bulletin by I. B. Melchers, assistant plant pathologist. The estimated loss for 1914 alone was nearly $8,000,000.

The most common and serious diseases affecting the grain and forage crops of Kansas are the so called smuts, points out Mr. Melchers. These diseases are more or less familiar to most farmers, since they occur in all parts of the state wherever such crops as wheat, barley, oats, corn, sorghum and millet are grown. Their importance in the regions where susceptible crops are raised is not generally known, but the loss sustained is enormous when carefully estimated. Collectively they total millions of dollars to the entire state, and individually they appreciably reduce the farmers' margin of profits.

The smut loss in 1914 was divided as follows: Wheat, $3,422,575; corn, $3,000,000; oats, $1,422,423; barley, $30,074; Kafir, $362,700; broom corn, $12,045; and millet, $12,070.
